

"My dad used to say that the only real difference between the various Latinos was the color of the beans. What Latinologues manages with humor and sharp insight is to capture the great culture and spirit we share in common. The rich tapestry is presented in clever, sharply written vignettes that made me roar with belly laughs born of familiarity. That's my family's story. I know that guy. This is our Fiddler. Funny, real, relevant, smart and did I say funny?" – *Geraldo Rivera
